

WOLF JOSEY

landscape architects

Project Designer level position opening:

Wolf Josey Landscape Architects is seeking a talented Project Designer/Manager with 2 to 4 years of work experience to work with us on a diverse range of projects.

About the positions:

Our small office supports professional growth and development, flexibility and mentorship. Versatility, self-motivation and resourcefulness are qualities that fit well within our firm's culture. We value well-crafted and ecologically responsible landscapes.

We offer a competitive salary, full healthcare coverage, retirement savings plan and downtown parking. We are located in the heart of Downtown with walkable access to other popular destinations including West Main Street, Belmont and IX Park.

Applicants should have a working knowledge of AutoCAD, Adobe Creative Suite, Rhino and MS Office Suite. Experience with construction drawing experience is strongly desired. Hand drawing skills, passion for design and regional plant knowledge are advantageous. Candidates must hold a MLA or BLA.

Competitive salary is commensurate with experience.

About Wolf Josey Landscape Architects:

Wolf Josey was founded in 2016 in downtown Charlottesville, Virginia. We are a woman owned business working primarily in the mid-Atlantic region. With the belief that all landscapes are important contributors to a community and the environment, we bring our values of design and ecological responsibility to every project regardless of scale. Our work ranges from master planning to park design to ecological restoration and garden design in both the public and private realm. Currently on the boards are a campus master plan, a 650 acre mountain estate adjacent to Shenandoah National Park, an 11 acre public park and spring restoration project in central Virginia, and several projects with the University of Virginia.
