

In the new Congress that begins January 2023, the bipartisan House Select Committee on the Climate Crisis is at risk of being eliminated. Before this happens, tell your representative that it is not appropriate to disband this critical policy forum.

This committee investigates, studies, makes findings, and develops recommendations on policies, strategies, and innovations to solve the climate crisis. The committee's work has helped advance our nation's most comprehensive climate action policies to date, including the Inflation Reduction Act.

Climate change remains an urgent problem to solve, and progress that the U.S. has made must not be slowed or reversed. Contact your representative today.
